SOCIALISTIC

Ideas of Former Harvard President Is Cause For Wide Censure.

Bishop McPaul Says They Would Be Ludicrous Unless Pittable.

Catholic Church Will Endure as Long as the World Lasts.

OTHER MINISTERS TO THE FORE

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard College, has brought a storm of indignation and protest about his head as the result of certain utterances of his before the Harvard summer school of theology last week. Propounding a new religion, Dr. Eliot said:

"It will not be bound by dogma or creed. Its workings will be simple, but its field of action limitless. Its discipline will be the training in the development of co-operative goodwill. It will attack all forms of evil. There will be no supernatural element; it will place no reliance on anything but the laws of nature. Prevention will be the watchword and a skilled surgeon one of its members. It will not deal chiefly with sorrow and death, but with joy and life. God will be so imminent that no intermediary will be needed. Its priests will strive to improve social and industrial conditions. The new religion will not attempt to reconcile people to present ills, but the promise of future compensation."

These Socialistic utterances had hardly appeared in the press before Dr. Eliot was belabored from all sides, and the man who seems to have yielded the most vigorous attack on the Right Rev. James A. McPaul, Bishop of Trenton, N. J., said the Bishop in part:

"It appears that Dr. Eliot has now assumed the role of a prophet. I am sorry for this, because always I have esteemed Dr. Eliot highly and have observed that modern prophets are not very successful in their prognostications. In my comments upon reported assertions of the Doctor my point of view must be that of a Christian and a Catholic. Dr. Eliot, I am informed, is a Unitarian, and therefore denies the Trinity and the divinity of Jesus Christ. Consequently he is not a Christian. It is easy therefore to draw the conclusion that our ideas upon religion must be very different."

"It has become fashionable in the last few years to speak of the church in a very wide sense, and as including the doctrines of various non-Catholic denominations, some of which are contradictory to one another. Thus some, in speaking of the church, would include Christians and non-Christians, or Catholics, Episcopalians, Baptists, Methodists, etc., and Unitarians under the term 'church.' When I speak of the church I mean the Catholic church, governed by the successor of St. Peter and the vicar of Christ in Rome. I consider her alone the Christian church in the strict sense of the word."

"It would be ludicrous, were it not so pitiable, to hear a man of Dr. Eliot's reputed learning and character outlining the 'church of the future.' God help humanity when it has to deal with the so-called religion of the future. Catholics always held that religion is a necessity, and it has been just as necessary in the past, just as necessary in the present as it ever will be in the future. We have not to wonder about in the midst of doubt and confusion looking for religion of the future and disinterested with that which we possess, like the Unitarian and other denominations."

"The Doctor says the religion of the future will be bound by no dogma or creed. In that case it will be a sort of nondescript, jelly-fish religion. It will be hard to find, not easily caught, and difficult to retain. In fact, few even will be able to recognize it when brought into contact with it. I am amazed when I hear men of presumed learning talking of religion without dogma or creed. It is like talking of building a house without a foundation. How could any religion exist unless it had fundamental principles?"

"He says the workings of the religion of the future will be simple. Yes, I should say so, in more senses than one."

"It will attack all forms of evil. In that case it will not differ from the Christian church. She has been attacking all forms of vice for nineteen centuries, and she stands as the only institution which offered an effective barrier during the ages to evil of every description. It is true she has not succeeded in extinguishing evil, but she has greatly limited its influence and its progress, and she is still warring against it as courageously as when she uprooted the unspeakable vices of ancient paganism. Let me assure the Doctor that the Catholic church alone has the power to bring about the defeat of the future which she never shall fail, and that she shall be the church of the future until the consummation of ages. All signs point to the fulfillment of this promise, for we Catholics now number between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 in the United States, and we are making converts to the Catholic church from the non-Catholic body at the rate of over 25,000 a year. Besides, race suicide is not fashionable among our people. Among us there are not more 'deaths' than 'births.'"

Methodist and Hebrew clergymen of Washington, D. C., also hastened to denounce the prophecy of Dr.

Eliot. The clergy of other cities also defended their respective creeds. The Rev. Joseph Grinnelman, S. J., President of St. Xavier's College at Cincinnati, said:

"The Catholic church has stood through the storm and stress of 2,000 years and if the world is here in 10,000 years the Catholic church will be here. Christianity, or at least the Catholic section of Christianity, is stronger today than it ever has been in its history."

USERS OF WOOD

Ought to Keep Up With Our Forestry Bureaus.

According to advices from Washington, D. C., a statistical study of the wood-using industries of Kentucky will be commenced early next month by the State Board of Agriculture, Forestry and Immigration in co-operation with the United States Forest Service.

The objects to be accomplished through this study are first to ascertain the species and amounts used in the hundreds of factories, with the purpose particularly of determining what woods should be grown for home consumption; and second, to compile this information for the benefit of buyers and sellers of lumber in the State. The data will be secured largely by correspondence. All information given by the manufacturers will be held confidential so far as the individual reports are concerned, the result as a whole being compiled into a report which will be published and distributed among those interested.

MEN OF GENIUS

Who Accomplished Much in Their Long Lives.

Two able Irishmen who were prominently identified with the progress of America passed into eternity last week. One was Col. John Meahan, a noted civil engineer, and the other was Patrick E. Roach, a famous contractor. Col. Meahan died at his home in Brower, N. Y., on Saturday. During Lincoln's administration Col. Meahan was in the Government coast survey and was with Halleck, Sheridan and Horace Porter in martial engineering. Before coming from Ireland to America he was chief of the Royal Engineers in the British army. After the war he superintended all the topographical surveys of the Croton water shed and the shed of the proposed Ashokan dam. He was eighty-two years old.

Patrick Roach also died on Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry A. Verhage, of Cincinnati. He was born in Ireland in 1827 and came to America when a young man. As a member of the firm of Boyle & Roach he built the first great Government locks of Sault Ste Marie river, and the construction of the Louisville and Portland canal was the result of his genius as a builder. Another of his successful projects was the tunnel through the mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee for the construction of the Cincinnati Southern railroad. He was ninety-two years old.

EXTRAORDINARY

Powers Conferred on Former Louisville Priest by Pope.

Word has been received here that the Rev. Father Albert Stroebel has received extraordinary honors from Pope Pius X. In being permitted to administer the sacrament of confirmation to the colored Catholics in the United States, in the Caribbean Sea. The news was first communicated to the Most Rev. A. Brioschi, Archbishop of Cartagena, Columbia, South America. It will be remembered that Father Stroebel was pastor of St. Augustine's church for colored people in this city in 1899.

Father Stroebel left the diocese of Louisville in 1901, and devoted himself to missionary work among the colored people on Old Providence Island. Up to that time there were no Catholics on the island. For three weeks he preached in one of the Protestant churches, and at the end of that time pastor and people were Catholics. Later Father Stroebel returned to the United States and under permission of Cardinal Gibbons and the late Archbishop Elder collected funds to continue his work. From the alms thus collected he returned to Old Providence Island and erected a Catholic church.

The Rev. Father St. John, an American priest, went to the island four years ago, and the number of converts has been so great that a second Catholic church has been built. Recently Father Stroebel has been enlarging his missionary labors by working in Cuba and is at present engaged in establishing an American colony there. He does not expect to return to Old Providence Island until November, when he will administer the rite of confirmation to those properly prepared.

ANOTHER REFORMER WRONG.

David H. Burwell, who is a Prohibitionist of note and who was employed by the Prohibition party in Indiana during the last campaign, was arrested at Buffalo last week and sent back to Indianapolis for trial. He must answer to charges of bigamy and embezzlement. Burwell is said to have been married three times without the formality of a divorce, and he is accused of embezzling $600 from a voting machine company. Thus another reformer has gone wrong.

DOMINICANS

And Franciscans Will Observe Two Great Feasts Next Week.

Portiuncula Indulgence May Be Gained Tomorrow Or Monday.

Followers of Two Saints Have Always Worked in Harmony.

CONTEMPORARIES AND FRIENDS

The church observes two events of more than ordinary importance next week, the Indulgence of St. Dominic and the feast of St. Portiuncula. The first is observed from the first vespers on August 1 until sundown on the following day. St. Dominic's day falls on the fourth of August, but will be celebrated on Saturday. During Lincoln's administration the Portiuncula was inaugurated by the followers of St. Francis of Assisi, who was a contemporary and friend of the great St. Dominic. Both occasions will be duly observed by the faithful in Louisville. As Saints Dominic and Francis were contemporaries and friends, so also are their followers at the present day all over the world. The brown gown of the Franciscan and white robe of the Dominican are found working together for the betterment of mankind all over the world. St. Dominic died in 1221 and St. Francis of Assisi five years later.

The Portiuncula takes its name from a church in Italy where St. Francis of Assisi used to minister. It was known as the church of the "little gate." Many miracles were performed there, and later an indulgence was granted to all who approached holy communion and prayed for the intention of the Pope in that church. Later August 2 was named as the day for the annual celebration of the Portiuncula and the indulgence was extended to all churches where the third order of St. Francis had been canonically established.

This year confessions in preparation for the feast may be made today, tomorrow or Monday morning, and communion received in any of the privileged churches on Sunday or Monday. A plenary indulgence, which may be applied to the souls in purgatory, may be gained as often as one visits one of the privileged churches from 2 o'clock this afternoon until sunset Monday, provided, of course, that during each visit prayers are said for the intentions of the Pope.

St. Dominic's day will be celebrated on Sunday, August 8, and the Dominicans have invited the Very Rev. Father Richard Wuerth, O. F. M., and several other Franciscans to celebrate the high mass at St. Louis Bertrand's church. Each year it is customary for the Dominicans to have the Franciscans say the mass on St. Dominic's day, and on St. Francis' day the Franciscans return the courtesy.

St. Francis and St. Dominic both founded great orders. One devoted his life to works of charity, while the other founded an order of preaching friars. In the twelfth century St. Dominic set out on his life of the life of heresy. He was eminently successful and in his work preached a great deal on the holy rosary. Both lived to see their orders flourish and to have convents and monasteries in many lands.

From the time of St. Francis and St. Dominic to the present the greatest friendship has existed among their followers.

All the details for the celebration of St. Dominic's day at St. Louis Bertrand's church will be announced next week.

UNVEILING

Of Grosse Isle Monument Will Attract Many Dignitaries.

The unveiling of the monument to the Irish fever victims of 1847-48 will take place at Grosse Isle on August 14 under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America. It is expected that many of the Archbishops, Bishops and other high dignitaries of the Dominion and Republic will be in attendance, also the Canadian Cabinet Ministers and representatives of the American House of Representatives and Senate. The monument will be unveiled by His Excellency Monsignor Sbarretti and grand mass will be celebrated by Archbishop Begin, of Quebec.

Benediction will be given by Archbishop O'Connell, of Boston, National Chaplain of the A. O. H. of America. The oration of the day will be delivered by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada and acting-Governor of the Dominion.

AGED LADY'S DEATH.

Jeffersonville lost one of its oldest and best known matrons in the death of Mrs. Sarah Mangin, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Stanton, 325 East Chestnut street, on Friday night of last week. Death resulted from stomach trouble. The deceased was born in Ireland seventy-nine years ago, but had spent the greater part of her life in Jeffersonville. She is survived by her husband, Prof. James A. Mangin, and two daughters, Mrs. Raymond Stanton and Miss Mary Mangin. The funeral took place from St. Augustine's church Monday morning. The Rev. Father John O'Connell conducting the funeral services. The pall bearers were James W. Forlano, Bernard A. Coll, Capt. John B. Murphy, Martin Fogarty, Peter Madden and Edward Fitzpatrick. The friends who knew Mrs. Mangin best admired her for her many kindly, Christian traits and sympathies with her bereaved family in their grief. To more than any their sympathy goes out to the aged husband who has been bereft of the life partner of his joys and sorrows. City and county officials, the rich and the poor, did honor to the memory of Mrs. Mangin by attendance at her obsequies.

HIGH HONOR.

Rev. Father Chidwick Is Chosen Head of Seminary.

The Rev. Father John P. Chidwick has been appointed President of St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoody, St. Joseph's is the greatest of all the theological seminaries in the United States conducted by secular priests. It is from that place that most of the young priests of the archdiocese of New York are graduated. The appointment of Father Chidwick has been received with satisfaction throughout the archdiocese. He will succeed the late Rev. Dr. James J. Driscoll, who recently resigned as head of the seminary at Dunwoody.

Father Chidwick is forty-six years old and a native of New York City. After completing a course in the parochial schools and at Manhattan College he pursued his theological studies at the seminary in Troy. After his ordination he was assistant to the pastor of St. Stephen's church, New York City, for several years, and in 1895 he was appointed Chaplain in the United States navy. He was Chaplain of the battleship Maine when it was blown up in the harbor of Havana in February, 1898, and his heroic devotion to duty in the face of that tragedy increased his already great popularity in the navy. In 1903 Father Chidwick was appointed pastor of St. Ambrose's church, New York City, and under his guidance the membership of the congregation has greatly increased. He has also been appointed Police Chaplain and a few weeks ago he preached a sermon to the police in St. Patrick's Cathedral. At the funeral of Lieut. Petrosino Father Chidwick rode on horseback with the other police officers.

Mrs. Mary Glenn, thirty-three years old, died Saturday morning at the home of her husband, Dennis Glenn, 2507 Magazine street. She is survived by her husband, Dennis Glenn. The funeral took place from the Cathedral of the Assumption on Monday morning, and the large attendance testified to the esteem in which she was held.

John Shaugnessy, a member of Division 1, A. O. H., died at the family residence, 1215 West Chestnut street, Monday afternoon, and his funeral took place from St. Patrick's church on Thursday morning. He had been ill several months and suffered from a complication of diseases. Mr. Shaugnessy was well known in Hibernian circles and his death is generally regretted.

Mrs. Barbara Albert, aged sixty-six years, died at her home, corner Jackson and Ormsby avenue, Friday night of last week. She is survived by her husband, Gabriel Albert. Mrs. Albert was highly esteemed in the community in which she lived. The funeral took place from St. Vincent de Paul's church Monday morning. PILGRIMS

From All Parts of Ireland Made Annual Visit to Croagh Patrick.

Revival of Ancient Pious Custom Is Growing Rapidly in Favor.

Masses Continually in Progress From 9 o'clock Until Noon.

MORE ARE EXPECTED NEXT YEAR

Last Sunday was a great day in the County Galway, Ireland, for it was on that day that thousands of pilgrims from every part of Ireland and others from all parts of the world journeyed to Croagh Patrick, the Sinal of Ireland. Both history and tradition tell us that St. Patrick himself sanctified the noble mountain by his prayers and fasting on its summit, and for centuries the devout people of Connaught have been making pilgrimages to the shrine.

In 1432, history tells us, Pope Eugene IV. granted an indulgence to all pilgrims who would ascend the mountain, or Croagh Patrick, on the last Sunday in July and give alms toward the repair of the venerable chapel, which was then crumbling with age, on the summit. There also can be found in the archives of the Vatican a letter which was given in 1485 by Octavian, Archbishop of Armagh, to two priests from the city of Lyons to testify that they had "visited in devout pilgrimage the holy mountain on which St. Patrick had fasted forty days and nights without earthly food." From these instances and many more that might be quoted it is manifest that the modern pilgrimage to Croagh Patrick is only the revival of an ancient one which was recognized centuries ago at home and abroad by priests and people, princes and popes.

The modern pilgrimages began with the advent of the Most Rev. Dr. Healy to the archdiocese of Tuam. At his direction a chapel was erected on the summit of Croagh Patrick in 1865, and since then the fame of the revived pilgrimages have spread to each of the five continents. On the last Sunday in July, 1905, there was only one mass in the little chapel on the mountain. In 1908 there were twenty. This year mass was in progress on each of the three days from 9 o'clock until noon. Two sermons were preached, one in Irish by the Rev. Father Nicholas Fogarty, of Ennistymon, whose fame for fluency in Gaelic is known on both sides of the Atlantic. The Rev. Father Bernard Kneafsey, O. F. M., of Limerick, preached the sermon in English. He exhorted his hearers for the honor of St. Patrick to take the temporary pledge for at least one year.

The railway companies ran excursions to Westport from all parts of Ireland and the fare was unusually low. Returning to Dublin the first train left Westport at 6 o'clock and other trains, all filled with the pious pilgrims, followed at intervals of twenty minutes.

Greater preparations than ever will be made next year on account of the home coming, and it is expected that hundreds of Americans will make the pilgrimage to the mountain made famous by St. Patrick himself.

MINISTER'S VIEWS.

Says Protestants Ought to Follow Example of Catholics.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat gives an outline of a sermon preached by Rev. Earl Hewson in a Congregational church of that city. Mr. Hewson said in part:

"Catholics can teach us much in respect and reverence for church buildings. Protestants enter and leave their churches with about as much reverence as they enter and leave a street car. I entered a Catholic church one night not long ago, and taking a back seat I watched the worshippers as they came and went, and was deeply impressed with their reverence and devotion. Before leaving I dropped on my knees and prayed that I might live to see the day when Protestants would enter and leave their churches in the same spirit that was manifested by the worshippers that night. I was so deeply impressed with what I had seen that I went home and wrote to Archbishop Glenn and asked him for the opinion as to why Catholics were more reverent than Protestants. He made a prompt and courteous reply, setting forth a number of reasons. The two that made the strongest appeal to me were: 'Their belief in the Real Presence of Christ dwelling in the church,' and 'The Catholic church teaches life, death and eternity in the spirit of realism, and the Catholic mind is subdued and reverent in the presence of these mysteries so presented.'"

BOSTON IRISH ACT.

The new Boston College will have a Daniel O'Connell hall, which will be devoted to Irish antiquities and specimens of Irish art, ancient and modern; and in which will be erected statues of famous Irishmen, with descriptive tablets. Nothing like this has yet been attempted anywhere. The project has enlisted the sympathy of our Catholic population, the most of which is of Irish blood. It is good thus to commemorate the fact that Boston at the time of the building of the new college has the largest element of Irish blood in any city of the world, and that there, in the ancient stronghold of the Puritans, the Irish immigrant maintained his faith and worked his way to prosperity—not seldom also to distinction—in the face of difficulties greater than those encountered by his fellows anywhere else in this land.

ROUTINE AFFAIRS

Occupied Time of Division 4's Members Monday Night.

Division 4, A. O. H., had a well attended meeting Monday night with President John H. Hennessy presiding. Samuel J. Bolderick, John McHugh and Richard Monahan were elected to membership. John J. Seavey was reported ill but somewhat improved; Michael Doyle and John Healy were reported on the sick list and William Coyne was reported fully recovered from his recent indisposition. The Literary Committee announced that it would report a programme at the next meeting providing for an entertainment for members only.

Attorney Newton G. Rogers said in a brief address that he would probably attend the Catholic National Federation at Pittsburgh next month, and also told what the local Federation was doing. Financial Secretary William F. McDonough said in his report for the second quarter. It showed that Division 4 had a comfortable balance. William J. Connelly, William Callahan, and Thomas J. Langan were appointed a committee to audit the books. John P. McShanahan was present after a long absence and was given the glad hand on all sides.

The Rev. Father Charles Christman, O. P., Chaplain of Division 4, announced that he would renew his interesting instructions on the holy sacrifice of the mass at the next meeting.

LOST A FRIEND.

Irish-Americans Mourn the Death of Estimable Man.

John Hebdon, for forty-five years foreman of the L. and N. boiler shops, died of acute indigestion at his home, 2164 West Broadway, last Saturday morning. He died in the harness, as it were, having been at work until two days before his death. Mr. Hebdon was a native of Indiana, but removed to Louisville in 1862, and resided here ever since. He was a thorough mechanic, full of energy and also full of human kindness. He is survived by two sons, James B. and John F. Hebdon, and two daughters, Miss Mary Hebdon and Mrs. John K. Freeman. Two sisters, Miss Jane Hebdon and Miss Isabella Hebdon, are also left to mourn his loss. The funeral took place Monday morning, and was attended by hundreds of the L. and N. employees and other friends of the family.

For forty years John Hebdon was the friend of Irishmen. He was kind, patient, fraternal. No one ever saw him angry. While dwelling in Louisville he was a student of human nature and possessed wonderful personal magnetism. Always he was ready with an excuse for another's faults, but never for his own. He helped others to win by example rather than by advice, and many there are in Limerick and Louisville who owe their little homes through the moral if not material aid of John Hebdon. To those the news of his death was a source of sorrow and many there were who feelingly said: "May his soul rest in peace."

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

Central Committee Prepares For Its Annual Outing.

Central Committee of the C. K. of A. held a special meeting Friday night of last week with President Scheldat occupying the chair. The attendance was excellent and quite a lot of routine business was disposed of. The committee accepted an invitation to attend the home-coming celebration of Branch 642 at Depen's Garden Tuesday night, and that event proved a grand social success.

After a full and free discussion the committee determined to hold the annual outing of the Catholic Knights of America at Fontaine Park on Wednesday, August 18. All the branches in Louisville, Jeffersonville and New Albany will co-operate to make the outing a success. The Entertainment Committee is arranging with the park management for a number of special features for the young folks.

The Central Committee's Dramatic Club, through its manager, Ben Speaker, announced that weekly rehearsals were being held and that it proposes to give an entertainment in the near future which will prove a pleasant surprise to the members of the various branches. No definite date has been fixed for the next initiation.

MOTHER SUPERIOR RETIRES.

Sister Mary Hyacinthe, for forty-one years Mother Superior of St. Francis Hospital at Trenton, N. J., retired last Saturday, and expects to end her days in a convent of the order in Pennsylvania. She was the founder of the hospital, which is now valued at $200,000.

MAJORITY

Of Government Greatly Reduced on First Division in Parliament.

Backing of the Ministry Was Cut Down On Birrell Bill.

Renewed Attempts Are Being Made to Disrupt Irish Party.

HOUSE OF LORDS MAY DEFEAT

Both parties in British Parliament have grown tired of the debate on the Lloyd-George budget and last week a temporary truce was declared. T. P. O'Connor, P. M., in his letter to the Chicago Tribune tells us that the British Ministry has not acted wisely in the early stages of the Birrell land bill. Its majority went down in the small figure of thirty-four in the first division on the bill, and the big reaction of the normal majority of a Government always weakens the measure in hand.

Under the Birrell bill the loss of flotation is removed from the backs of the Irish people and is assumed by the Government. This means that the Government will have to pay for about sixty-seven years $1,250,000.

So far the action of the Government and the effect of Birrell's bill is good and generous. Unfortunately this excellent proposal is accompanied by another, which is that the land shall be issued in future as a 3 per cent. stock and not as a 2 1/2 per cent. stock. It is hoped that a 3 per cent. stock will be taken up by the money market at par or something approaching par, and that therefore there will be either no loss on flotation or a much smaller loss than under the Wyndham act.

And as the new land stock is to be issued as a 3 per cent. stock, the interest paid annually to the tenant is raised from 3 1/2 to 3 per cent. per annum. The effects of such a change are obvious. The tenants of half of Ireland—that is to say, the tenants who have already bought—will pay one rate of interest, 3 per cent.; the other half—those who have not yet bought—will have to pay another and a higher rate of interest, or 3 1/2 per cent. This must lead to dissatisfaction.

But of course the compulsory portions of the bill may be thrown out by the House of Lords; and if that should happen, a delicate and difficult situation will arise. It is plain that without compulsion the bill will be extremely difficult to stamp through the change of the annual interest. If the Tories should come into office in a year or two they could easily remedy this defect in Birrell's bill by a single clause bill. And, meantime, while dwelling on this and other defects in Birrell's bill, those who are conducting this tremendous epoch making fight are compelled to think also of the other proposals of the bill. They have to think of the relief to the tenant of the potato by the Government of the annual loss on flotation to the extent of $1,250,000.

But more than this, they have to think of those parts of the bill which deal with the congested districts. The importance of this part of the bill can not be exaggerated. The congested districts consist of those portions of Ireland—mostly on the western land, where you have on one side in juxtaposition population congested into miserable patches of land, rock, seaweed, swamp, thick as sardines, and on the other side vast grazing lands—now called ranches in Irish political phraseology; and in consequence you have terrible and abysmal depths of poverty on one side with the fertile lands that might transform the poverty into comparative prosperity.

Purchase, which has gone on with such lightning rapidly in the richer parts of Ireland, has been a failure in these regions—with this curious and even absurd result, that relief has come where it was least wanted and has been refused where it was most wanted. The landlords of these desolate regions have proved more greedy and recalcitrant than in any other part of Ireland, and in short while half the rest of Ireland has passed from the ownership of the landlords to that of the people, the congested districts have remained in the hands of the despots.

Mr. O'Connor also writes that new attempts are being made to disrupt the Irish party. He says:

Though William O'Brien has retired, the factionists have not ceased their attempts to disrupt the Irish party. They are engaged in wholesale misrepresentation; they are trying not to amend but to wreck Birrell's bill, because they think that if they wreck Birrell's bill they may also wreck the Irish party and the leadership of Redmond.

I am not sure that these efforts will not be successful, for the House of Lords hates the principle of compulsory sale so much, hates so much the principle of popular election to the congested districts board, and hates so much Birrell's laying aside $5,000,000 a year for the special relief of these unfortunate regions that they require little encouragement to mutilate the Birrell bill to such an extent as will make it impossible for the Irish party to accept the measure. And if that eventuality should come to pass Ireland may once more be thrown into the horrors and perils of a land war.

BE REVERENT IN CHURCH.

Those Protestants who visit Catholic churches are accustomed to note and comment upon the reverence of Catholics in their own houses of worship. This fact alone leads many of our dissenting brethren to visit other Catholic churches to inquire the cause, and finally to become members of the true church. As a rule Catholics are reverent and devout in our churches, but unfortunately it is not always so.

Only too frequently pastors are called upon to rebuke their people for undue levity at marriage ceremonies. They seem to forget, for the time being, that matrimony is a sacrament, just as baptism, confirmation, penance, the Holy Eucharist and holy orders are sacraments. Men and women, young and old, gather in the church, gossip about, comment on the attire of the bride, the prospects of the groom, and laugh, talk and otherwise conduct themselves as if they were in a theater. This is all wrong.

More frequently, perhaps, than at any other time, non-Catholics visit Catholic churches to attend weddings. It is a time of rejoicing, of course, but what will these non-Catholics think and what comments will they utter when they see men and women standing on the seats of pews and hear them laughing and chattering like so many magpies? Catholics rebuked for these practices feel that they have been personally humiliated. Well, they deserved the humiliation. They have earned it. They know better, but they forget. Carolee men and women need their wits about them in the church more than anywhere else. They will not deny the real presence of our Saviour in the Blessed Sacrament; they would be the first to object to undue levity at mass on Sunday or at benediction. Why, then, do they subject themselves to adverse comment on the occasion of weddings?

It has happened here in Louisville that bride and groom have taken a few steps from the altar when they are held up and slobbered over. Quite frequently the portals of the church are deluged with rice by over-zealous friends of the contracting parties.

It would look hard, indeed, to have to call upon the city government to furnish a policeman to keep order during marriages, but unless better behavior is forthcoming strenuous action will be necessary. Catholics must set an example of reverence for holy things at all times.

PROPERLY REBUKED.

In passing sentence on Cornelius P. Shea, a former Chicago labor leader, Judge Foster, of the New York Supreme Court, uttered some scathing but richly deserved truths. Shea had been convicted of attempting to murder Allee Walsh, a girl whom he had misled after he had deserted his wife and children, in Chicago. He received an indeterminate sentence of from five to twenty-five years in the State prison, to passing sentence Judge Foster said: "Your services for humanity are urged here in your behalf, because you have been active in the affairs of organized labor. I believe in the right of labor to organize, but there is a prejudice in this community, and we must admit its existence, against organized labor, because such men as you dominate it with your brutal methods and your coarse, offensive personality, and a part of the community has come to look upon organized labor as being composed of brutes and securing their victories by brutal methods. But that is all wrong. I believe I am helping the cause of organized labor by ridding it of one such as you and sending you to State's prison."

Would it be possible for Louisville to borrow Judge Foster for a while? Louisville labor circles also need a little housecleaning.

ONE PROFESSOR'S IDEAS.

Professors in the University of Chicago have a peculiar faculty for getting free advertising, and they do not seem to care what is said of them, good or ill, as long as they are in the limelight. The latest bidder for "free doings" is a professor in the divinity school, who is represented as having said: "Boys in the Sunday-school should not learn the catechism. They do not need it and they can not grasp it." Even if a boy can not grasp the infinity of our Divine Creator, does this "learned" professor presume to say that a boy should not be taught his duty toward his neighbor; that he must love, honor and obey his parents; that he must submit himself to evil authority; that he must submit himself to all his teachers, pastors and masters; that he must conduct himself so as not to injure others in word or deed; that he must be sober and chaste; that he must learn to labor and to do his duty to the State, his family and himself?

All these things the catechism teaches, and surely every boy and girl ought to be taught as early as possible the difference between right and wrong.

TRADING STATESMEN.

Is there one man in this country, Democrat or Republican, foolish enough to believe that the present Congress is trying to make a tariff according to pre-election promises? Every succeeding day shows the fallacy of such an idea. Mr. Aldrich will consent to free hides if Mr. Payne will consent to a reduction on leather goods, and Mr. Payne will consent to a reduction in the tariff on hosiery if Mr. Aldrich will consent to a reduction on cotton. Besides Speaker Cannon, who is an intimate friend of Mr. Lillaner, a millionaire glove manufacturer, has secured a higher rate on gloves. This is it that our statesmen are not legislating for the country's good but trading among each other for personal gain.

OUR DEBT TO ITALY.

In listening to some of the lecturers, professors and statesmen of this "Anglo-Saxon" land, one almost forgets the debt that we Americans owe to Italy. Were it not for Christopher Columbus, Amerigo Vesputi, Juan and Sebastian Cabot and Juan Verazano this Western hemisphere might still be peopled by the Indians. First of all then the credit for the discovery of America is due to Italian navigators. But besides the sons of Italy in America have done much for the world of finance, for music and art, for the Church and State, and for these reasons the Italians in America are entitled to the respect of their fellow citizens.

CATHOLICS GAINING.

The Baptist World says: "While the Protestant students for the ministry in Germany have decreased by half in the last eighteen years, the Catholic students have steadily grown in numbers. Why is this? Is Protestantism losing its grip on modern Germany? Some German Protestants believe very little to preach. Germany is a commercial nation." It may be added that German Protestants are not the only Protestants who believe too little to preach.

The officers of a Methodist church in Montgomery, Ala., have asked a Sunday-school teacher to resign because he had aligned himself with the business men of the State in opposing State-wide prohibition. This seems to be one instance where Protestantism opposes a man thinking for himself.

The convention will close Tuesday night with a moonlight excursion in honor of the visiting members on Tuesday evening.

LARRY QUINLAN'S SURPRISE.

Larry Quinlan, the hardworking and conscientious short stop in Louisville baseball team, was pleasantly surprised last Sunday by a number of his Louisville admirers. When he stepped to the plate for the first time Empire Gerald Hayes called time, and in a few words presented Quinlan with a Knights of Columbus gold button encrusted with diamonds. Larry was so completely taken by surprise that he could not say a word. Instead he showed his appreciation by laying out a hit. The donors of the pin were James and Jack Shelley, Charles Ruidy, Andrew East, Herman Walring, T. Jeff Bannon, Patrick Manning, William P. Bannon, Henry Applegate, John J. Barry, S. J. Barry, Charles O'Connor, Al Smith, David Welsh, W. J. Brady, J. Calhoun, William E. Davis, Frank Montz, J. Sommers and William Malone.

McCann, a traveling salesman for the Mallow Monument Company and a prominent resident of Jeffersonville, fell from a ladder in his barn Tuesday and sustained a compound fracture of his right ankle. He was superintending the stabling of hay when the accident occurred. Capt. McCann is sixty years old, and he will be confined to his home for some time.

RIVERVIEW PARK.

Next week a band of colored public singers will be the big attraction at Riverview Park, and the antics of the dusky belles and beaux will furnish amusement to lovers of comedy. Gilliland's Black Hussar Band will close a two weeks' engagement at the park with concerts this afternoon and evening. Leroy Wade, a Louisville boy, in a hypnotic stunt, is the main attraction in the free vaudeville this week. Another line of splendid vaudeville artists is promised for next week.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

Mackin Council had a good attendance Tuesday night, but nothing except routine matters were discussed. It was announced that everything was in readiness for the entertainment of the delegates to the Grand Council. Dr. Vincent Fallisi, of Little Rock, Ark., who is spending his vacation with his parents in this city, was given a warm welcome home and made a nice talk to his old colleagues and chums. At the meeting next Tuesday night a committee will be appointed to arrange for celebrating the sixteenth anniversary of the council on September 10.

FONTAINE FERRY PARK.

Fontaine Ferry Park offered another good vaudeville bill in addition to the free concerts this week, and the attendance was good every afternoon and evening. The people seem to take advantage of the park's many attractions and during the few days possible at this popular resort. Next week more excellent vaudeville turns will serve to attract crowds to the park, and the free concerts will continue as before.

ST. ANN'S DAY.

Numerous Press Reports of Pilgrimages to Her Shrines.

Press reports from various cities tell of the crowds that thronged churches dedicated to St. Ann, mother of the Blessed Virgin, on Monday, her feast day. From Kankakee, Ill., comes the story of the restoration of sight to the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fountain. The child had been blind since she was seven months old.

The child's mother had made a novena to the saint at the shrine of St. Ann, St. Ann, Ill., and on Monday led the little one to the altar. The child started back in affright as her crossed eyelids opened. The mother, weeping with joy, carried the little one away.

One of the most remarkable religious demonstrations ever seen in the United States occurred at the Church of St. Ann, New York City, Monday, when thousands of lame, blind and people otherwise afflicted sought to gain entrance to the church. It became necessary to summon details of police to keep the crowd in line. A number of miraculous cures were reported on each of the nine days of the novena.

WORKED LONG AND HARD.

Andrew Mack, the sweet Irish singer and actor, has achieved success only after long and arduous work. He was born in Boston forty-six years ago, and from early childhood had a penchant for the career of an actor. At the age of thirteen he began his stage life, but it is only within the last few years that he came into prominence as a star.

BABY SHOW AT PICNIC.

Much interest is being taken in the arrangements for the picnic to be held at Spring Bank Park Monday, August 13, under the auspices of the West Broadway Social Club. There will be a baby show during the afternoon and a number of handsome prizes will be awarded. At night a grand display of fireworks is promised.

FANCIES OF FASHION.

Shirtings are on their way back. Soft, cool blouses of China or Japanese silk are popular for summer wear.

Gray, tan, khaki and even darker shades are more worn than the white linens.

Stockings match every variety of shoes and the more fashionable dress shades.

The Psyche knot is still worn, but has become smaller, standing out less from the head.

The two-piece linen suit has a great vogue, especially for traveling and automobilizing.

Hat brims seem to get lower and lower. Unless they cover almost the entire head they are not modish.

Stripes are promised a run in the late summer, and already it seems that striped chevrons are to have first place.

Long sleeves will be worn on all tailored waists, but the soft, fluffy afternoon frocks will have elbow sleeves.

Fashionable women are using fewer tan shoes for street wear than for some time, and have gone back to black.

Never was the vogue so great for harmony of the whole costume, and the most stylish women appear with gown, hat, shoes and accessories of the same hue.

ST. PATRICK'S HUMOR.

On a certain occasion while preaching St. Patrick told the story of Jonas, relating how the ship in which Jonas had embarked was on the point of sinking, because the prophet was not yet willing to obey the command of the Lord. When the saint had concluded his discourse he was about to leave, but a pagan stopped him and said:

"I do not like the kind of justice and right your God uses."

"Why?" said the saint.

"Because," replied the pagan, "if the story you were telling a little while ago is true, He was going to drown a whole shipful of people on account of the crime of one man; the worst judge we ever had in Ireland would not do the like of that."

"Come with me, my good man," said St. Patrick, and he led him to a mossy bank where the saint knew there was a nest of bees. "Now, stay here," said Patrick, "I'll find a hive to put these bees in."

Patrick left and when he came back he found the pagan fighting frantically with hands and feet against the bees, hundreds of them lying dead on the ground and hundreds more falling.

"Oh, why did you so mercilessly destroy these poor bees?" remonstrated the saint.

"Oh, the little demons, the little demons," yelled the pagan. "Without the slightest cause or reason one of them stung me on the cheek."

"And," said Patrick, "on account of the misconduct of one you killed them all; I thought you said that was an unjust thing to do and that the like of it was never done in Ireland."

ENERGY AND WILL.

Energy and will is the soul of every great character. Where it is there is resolute character; where it is not there is faintness, with effeminacy, despondency, neglect of duty and failure. "The strong individual and the waterfall," says the proverb, "channel their own path."

CURE FOR ANTS.

A small quantity of tartar emetic, as much sugar, and cover with water. Put in a small dish or tin and put where the ants are found and in a short time they will all be gone.

RELIGIOUS

Crisis Is Rapidly Approaching and All Eyes Are On France.

Spiritual Consolation Refused
the Dying and Abuses Continue.

Cardinal Andrien the Central

WHAT BAYONNE'S BISHOP SAID

The Rev. Father Kelly, of the Catholic Church Extension Society, who is now sojourning in France, writes: "The dying in the hospitals asking for religious consolation are refused it. Robbed and scourged by a dishonest Government are the clergy of France, forbidden to do anything for the glory of God and the honor of their country; yet, too often, we in America, who ought to know better, turn to them with blame upon our lips. No greater service could be done today in the cause of justice than to have the American people know—because they are a fair-minded people when they do know—just what is the situation in France."

A crisis seems to be rapidly approaching in religious matters in France; the Government appears to be abandoning its cautious seizure of one point of vantage after another in its attacks upon the church, and to be determined to force the issue no less than the great final conflict with the hierarchy of France.

Within a few months six Bishops have been presented under the so-called "separation" law. The Bishop of Cahors was fined $5 for forbidding his flock to send their children to anti-religious schools. The Archbishop of Auch and six of his priests were fined $10 each for the same reason. They have refused to pay and will probably go to prison. The Bishop of Bayonne was fined $100 for declaring excommunicated the purchasers of confiscated church property. The Council of State has given judgment in the case of the great captive basilica of Montmartre, in Paris. It declares that the church forms part of the archiepiscopal "mensa," and it is to be confiscated by the Government.

The editor of Rome says that other prosecutions are in sight; and it is quite clear that the church in France is entering into the last stage of the conflict that will mean death or victory. The recent letter from Pius X. to Col. Keller has been falsely heralded by the Anti-Clericals as a condemnation of republicanism in general, and of the French republic in particular. Needless to say, no such interpretation can with any justice be placed upon it, nor was it so intended by the Holy See.

On their side the members of the French hierarchy are lining up in the conflict, with Cardinal Andrien as the great central figure. About him are gathered all his fellow Bishops. Eighty-five of them have written to him letters of congratulation and of adherence to the stand he has taken. The Bishop of Bayonne, summoned in his turn before the civil court, also made a splendid declaration of principles. "There are some who believe," he said, "that in this world there is but one power, the civil power. In truth there are two. To the civil power God has entrusted the temporal order; for the rulers relating to the religious order He has constituted a spiritual sovereignty entrusted to His church. These two powers have each their proper and distinct domain; they are therefore independent. The church has the right of opposing the intrusion of the State in its domain, as the State can repel the incursions of the church in purely civil affairs."

"The Caesars, made uneasy and jealous by this rival power which proclaimed its dominion over men's souls, tried to obtain possession of it for their own purposes, to destroy it. They commanded the apostles to obey and are cast into prison and put to death. I have said that there are laws which it is a duty to disobey. And I have said that to lay it down as a principle that the law is to be blindly obeyed in all that it commands or prohibits is absurd and monstrous. It would mean the glorification of servitude and tyranny. When a law is in opposition with the divine law, or when it violates the rights of conscience, it is no longer a law. . . . In me you have not a revolutionary before you. The law for me is the most respectful of citizens toward all just laws; but they are also the defenders of the rights of consciences; and in certain cases they have a mission to protect the weak by resisting the strong."

MISS NELLIE FINEGAN HURT.

Miss Nellie Finegan, of 1039 South Sixth street, sustained serious injuries in a street car accident Monday evening. Miss Finegan was aboard a Sixth street car en route home when the car collided with a heavily laden express wagon. Miss Finegan was thrown violently from her seat and sustained serious injuries to her back. It may be a week before the full extent of her injuries is known. Less than a year ago Miss Finegan was injured in a similar accident and was confined to her home for three months as a result.

An Old Merchant.
Accord, N. Y., July 6, 1907.
I am an old merchant and have been in business for 30 years. About 10 years ago I was afflicted with nervous prostration. I consulted doctors, specialists but found no relief until I was advised by a friend to try Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic. By the use of which I have been cured. I feel sure the Nerve Tonic will help many who are suffering from nervous troubles.
W. C. HAINES.

Could Not Remember My Own Name.
Lowell, Mass., Sept. 3rd, 1907.
I was afflicted for 6 months with nervous prostration to such an extent that I did not remember my own name and did not recognize my own children. I cannot explain my case fully as it was so complicated, that I do not like to think of it. After I had taken the first bottle of Koenig's Nerve Tonic I began to feel stronger and after I had taken 8 bottles I am entirely cured.

MEANS MUCH

The Result of Games With the Minneapolis Team.

A battle royal for pennant honors will be inaugurated at Eclipse Park this afternoon when Jimmy Collins' Minneapolis team will begin a four-game series with Grayson's Colonels and it means much to the victor, as it insures first or second place in the race for pennant. At the very least, on their last trip here the Louisville team proved easy picking for Collins' crew, being defeated three straight, but better things are expected from the Colonels this trip, as every man from Manager Heine Peltz down is putting up the game of his life and an article of ball that is proving pleasing to the crowds.

The new owner, William Grayson, Jr., certainly made a bid for popular favor when he made the announcement of a reduction in price of admission for the ladies. This is as it should be, for the presence of the ladies has a good tendency in the behavior of the crowds, and no better advertising medium could be invoked, as the fair sex will certainly prove good boosters for the team.

FEDERATION CONVENTION.

The National Federation of Catholic Societies will begin its eighth annual convention at Pittsburg one week from tomorrow, when the Right Rev. Bishop Connevin will celebrate and open with Pontifical high mass. The initial sermon will be preached by the Right Rev. Bishop Maes, of Covington. Anthony Sheridan, President of the Jefferson County Federation of Catholic Societies, and Attorney Newton G. Rogers will represent Louisville at the national gathering.

DESPERATE

Seems to be Plight of the Post in Its Efforts Against City
Democracy.

Tries to Play Both Sides in Fruitless Endeavor to Curry Favor.

The Republican Machine Would Like to See Democrats Divided.

CITY OFFICIALS IN THE GRAFT

Day after day the Louisville Evening Post is attempting by innuendo to discredit the local Democratic ticket. When it does not dare to make a plain statement it asks a question that leads doubtful Thomases astray. It avants to see the Democratic party split, and in so doing is liable to be split in twain itself. The Post is attempting to walk a wire fence with the Grinstead ticket on one side and an independent Democratic ticket on the other. The chances are that the Post will slip and be split from the pelvis to where its brains ought to be.

The Post is urging Col. Morris Belknap for head of the First Kentucky Regiment. That is not strange! The Post dearly loves a Democrat. The man with money is the Post's embodiment of wisdom.

The Post is continually asking questions, but fails to publish the answer. Here is one it might answer: Who is the Captain of Police that got drunk and sent for the patrol wagon to take him home two weeks ago? This ought to be easy for the Post to answer. Was there a fight at a fishing camp on the Ohio river on July 18, in which one man was badly beaten, and is not a prominent county official materially interested in the welfare of that camp?

Has the Post ever answered the Herald's question as to which of the Republican nominees for a city office was indicted for permitting gambling on his saloon premises and thereafter confessed a fine? The Post harps continually on the Cumberland Telephone Company, yet Attorney Dave Fairleigh is a close friend of the telephone company and of the Post.

Members of the General Council are not allowed under the city charter to become directly or indirectly interested in contracts with the city, but if one gets a look at the city or county pay rolls they will show that sons, nephews, brothers-in-law, and other relatives of Councilmen and Aldermen are either interested in contracts or drawing salaries from either the city or county.

The Republican administration has been guilty of so many sins of omission and commission that it is seeking to hide away and at the same time cries out against the alleged crimes of the Democratic party. The sole policy of the Republicans, as we now seem to be the disruption of the Democratic party. Another story is going the rounds. It deals with Pat and Mike, the two white horses that draw the Central patrol wagon. The story is current that their names have been changed to Scholl and Fairleigh. Why? Because they hailed Democratic policemen in 1905.

ARCHBISHOP KEANE VERY ILL.

According to the latest advices the Most Rev. John J. Keane, Archbishop of Dubuque, is close to death, and his physicians entertain no hope of his recovery. He is suffering from organic heart disease. Archbishop Keane is one of the most tireless workers in the American hierarchy. He began his career in the priesthood as an assistant pastor in Washington, D. C. His learning and zeal caused him to be raised to the prelacy as Bishop of Richmond, Va. It was to his lot that fell the work of organizing the Catholic University at Washington, and his hard and anxious work in that task undermined his health. Later still he was elevated to the Archiepiscopate of Dubuque. He is noted in Catholic circles as an educator, scholar and champion of total abstinence. All over the United States prayers are being offered up for his speedy recovery or happy death.

COL. DORIAN HONORED.

Col. John J. Dorian has been nominated for Judge of the Police Court by the Republicans of Paducah. He has twice elected City Treasurer of Paducah and each time ran ahead of the ticket. Moreover he was the first Republican ever elected to a salaried office in that Gibraltarian Democracy. There are few Republicans in the State more widely known than Col. Dorian, who has not missed a State convention of his party in thirty years. If elected he will preside with dignity and those who know him believe that he will temper justice with mercy.

PLANS MATURING.

Plans for the joint picnic to be given by Division 3 and the Ladies' Auxiliary at Phoenix Hill Park on August 24 are rapidly maturing, and the following Executive Committee has been appointed: Mrs. Daniel J. Dougherty, Mrs. Rosa Ansbach, Miss Mary Conoran, Thomas Stevens and D. J. Coleman. Heads of other committees were named as follows: Refreshments, Mrs. William M. Higgins; Euchre, Miss Fannie Kennedy; Country Store, Miss Elizabeth Kling; Collins' Orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music.

NEEDED VACATION.

Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer, of Milwaukee, has gone East for at least a month. He has not fully recovered from his recent illness. If he does not improve his vacation will be indefinitely prolonged.
